

Doug Meade – Banjo and Vocals – Doug was drawn into bluegrass music and the banjo, due primarily to growing up 5 miles from Ralph Stanley's home. He Started playing banjo at age 20 and has established several bands on his own and has been a member of many more (Lonesome Pine Bluegrass, Sourwood Mountain Band, Big T and his Entourage). Doug has developed a style of his own on the banjo with key components from the notable greats like Earl Scruggs, JD Crowe and Don Reno. Doug also sings Lead and Harmony vocals. Doug has established himself as a hard driving banjo player, but can also feel the music and play what is being sung. He grew up in Southeast Virginia, and now makes his home in Hobucken, NC.
